HIGHER EDUCATION RESIDENCY CLASSIFICATION SUMMARY

RCW 28B.15.015 // WAC 250-18-010

The Washington State Legislature and Council for Postsecondary Education has mandated that all higher education institutions in Washington follow specific requirements and procedures in determining a student's residency classification for tuition-paying purposes. The statute couples the length of time a student has resided in the state of Washington with whether he/she is financially dependent or independent.

A resident student has resided in Washington, for primarily other than educational purposes, and:

- a) is a financially independent student who has resided in Washington continuously for at least 12 months and has maintained a bona fide residence, or;
- b) is a student who is financially dependent upon a parent or legal guardian who has resided in Washington continuously for at least 12 months prior to the start of the academic quarter for which resident status is requested.

A non-resident student:

- a) is financially dependent on a parent or legal guardian who resides outside of Washington State.
- b) is receiving financial assistance for educational purposes from another state, governmental unit, or agency on the basis of being a resident of that state.
- c) is a non-US citizen who does not hold a Permanent or Temporary Resident Alien Card, Refugee-Parolee, or Conditional entrant Status or is not otherwise permanently residing in the United States under color of law.
- d) does not qualify as a resident student as defined above.

When determining your residency status, the College must first determine whether you are financially dependent or independent and have established a bona fide domicile in Washington. According to enacted legislation, this is determined by the pertinent facts listed on your (financially independent student) or your parent's (financially dependent student) federal and state income tax returns for the calendar year prior to the quarter you apply for residency reclassification. The pertinent facts include; the address, listing of dependents and the signature page. All financial information may be deleted prior to submission.

To determine if a bona fide domicile in Washington has been established a variety of factors are taken into consideration. Simply living in Washington for more than twelve months prior to requesting a residency reclassification does not establish a bona fide domicile. It also entails obtaining and maintaining the factors below (not listed in order of importance):

- a) purchase of a home or rental receipts showing twelve months of residency in Washington State
- b) Washington motor vehicle registration and payment of the excise tax on all vehicles
- c) valid Washington driver's license
- d) registration to vote in Washington
- e) permanent full-time or part-time employment in Washington

Active duty military personnel below the rank of general or admiral may pay in-state rates. Spouses and dependents of active duty military personnel physically stationed in Washington are eligible to pay resident tuition rates. This status is also granted to refugees. Certain persons may be exempt from payment of the non-resident tuition, contingent upon their employment by higher education. Proof of these statuses must be provided (i.e. Military ID Card, Refugee Card, etc.)

From the information obtained on an Admissions Application or registration form, the Admissions Office will make an initial determination of your residency status. You will be notified by mail of your non-resident classification. It is your responsibility to pursue a request for a residency review/change. If you wish to have your non-resident status reviewed, you must do so by submitting a completed Residency Questionnaire and all the required documents to the Admissions Office at the campus at which you applied for admission.

A person classified as a non-resident has the opportunity to apply for reclassification by submitting the items listed above within 30 calendar days from the start of the instructional quarter for which he/she is requesting a change. Paperwork submitted after 30 days will be reviewed for the next quarter. The burden of proof is the responsibility of the applicant and a person's submission of inadequate or erroneous documentation may well result in denial of reclassification for that particular quarter.

Pierce College has an option for students who have been classified as non-residents who are unable to pay non-resident fees and still wish to attend college. Civilians may enroll at our military sites at Fort Lewis and McChord. However, not all programs are offered at the military sites, so interested students should call Fort Lewis at (253) 964- 6567 or McChord at (253) 964-6606 for further information.

If you have questions or concerns, please call the Admissions Office at Fort Steilacoom (253-964-6501) or the Admissions Office at Puyallup (253-864-3292).

NOTE: To be financially independent, you must show that you provide at least 51% of your financial support.
